
Womenswear Buyer database

Posted by Renatogrant - 2008/06/26 14:53

Last time I will be doing this guys so if interested just email me directly at Renato@hemisphereassociates.co.uk. You will receive my 420 plus womenswear database of Top end boutique/department store buyers/addresses/contact details, the same as I use everyday & currently use for my s/s09 collections which i start selling July 14th. The cost for this plus all the other info i provide, terms & conditions, buyer info pack etc etc is £100! Last time around for the designers who missed out last time!

=====

Re:Womenswear Buyer database

Posted by sequence - 2008/06/27 02:52

Can you confirm that the database is up to date?

Intrigued?

=====

Re:Womenswear Buyer database

Posted by silvie - 2008/06/27 06:35

does it include all information such as email address and status too?

=====

Re:Womenswear Buyer database

Posted by Renatogrant - 2008/06/27 08:38

Yes my database is upto date. I use it daily to target the buyers/stores I am after, remember, this database has been put together by me, info not gleaned from anywhere else. I am a fashion agent, it's my business to target the best boutiques and dept stores for the designers I represent, pointless me sending info to the wrong buyers etc etc.

=====

Re:Womenswear Buyer database

Posted by Renatogrant - 2008/06/27 08:41

I only have email addresses on the database for stores/buyers I do business with. I don not do email campaigns as buyers dislike this and dept store buyers will have a block on unsolicited mail, it will go straight to junk. Once I am supplying the relevant buyer/store I of course liase by email.

=====

Re:Womenswear Buyer database

Posted by Abyerley - 2008/07/13 16:26

Any chance of quick trial? Could you do a feature on the site so we can check it out - its like buying a pig in a poke?Am genuine.

=====

Re:Womenswear Buyer database

Posted by Renatogrant - 2008/07/14 12:56

Bit difficult for you to trial my database? If your looking for the top boutique/department store buyer contacts then they are all on there. Not quite sure what you mean regarding a site? Dont have a website if thats what you mean. If you want proof of who I am/ what i do, just call Austique in the Kings rd (spk to Jess the buyer) or Galleria Conti in Battersea (spk to Marietta the buyer) They will confirm who I am, I supply both. If yr lucky enough to get through, spk to Polly or Laura, senior buyers at Selfridges 2nd floor also (doubt you'll get through, bit difficult for new designers to get a hold of them by phone. Which is why my database,info pack tells you exactly what to do & how.)

=====

Re:Womenswear Buyer database

Posted by sparkles - 2008/08/11 12:43

Hi there,

If your database merely consists of email adresses, as you have stated, buyers and press tend to delete bulk emails as spam, how would you suggest to utilise this information and justify the worth at Â,Â£100 if we can expect to be ignored? Sorry if i seem rude, it just seems you are slightly contradicting yourself?

=====

Re:Womenswear Buyer database

Posted by Renatogrant - 2008/08/11 13:09

Hi Sparkles,

You misunderstand. My buyer database consists of full buyer name, address, phone number, fax where applicable, mobile where applicable and email address where applicable. What you would notice on my database is the buyers I deal with, i.e supply my designers to, I will have their email and mobile numbers listed. Unless yr dealing with buyers they can be reluctant to give out such details. You are correct in that bulk emailing is the wrong thing to do as you will be junk mailed but you are incorrect if you think my database is a list of email addresses! I target buyers everyday during the selling season so my database has to be accurate for my own purposes otherwise a complete waste of my time!

=====